Secretary General of Parliament, Mrs. Kushani Rohanadeera, said recently that she expects the maximum support from all the staff to carry out the duties of Parliament, with maximum efficiency in the midst of various challenges.

She stated this recently (Jun. 13) while addressing the parliamentary staff for the first time after assuming office.

She pointed out the need to provide maximum service by managing the situations that arise, especially since a large number of experienced staff members are going to retire in the next few years.

Also, the Secretary General emphasized that there is no truth in the news that Administrative Service officers are being recruited for the parliamentary staff.
